

The early Salloums who travelled across deserts, oceans, and continents are to be admired. Let us follow in their footsteps and not be as the poet described some of the modern men:

"When sons, lacking their fathers' worth,
Are neither skilled nor sage,
With what deserving can they claim
Their fathers' heritage?"

I wish to thank my daughter Muna Salloum who typed the English section and Ghada Khouri who translated and typed the Arabic.

Habib Salloum

To compile a history of a family in one country for a period of a couple of hundred years needs much research. How much more research must one do when the family is scattered over the many countries of four continents; Asia, Africa, North and South America. I have compiled this little booklet of the Salloum family tree in Arabic and in English, the major languages of the Salloum family but in future Spanish and Portuguese could be included. The modest effort I have put into the research of the Salloum family is only a start which perhaps others might wish to follow.

How interesting it would be if one could have the time to look into the Salloum locations and names. When my brother was travelling through Tunisia he saw a sign indicating the town of Salloum. How did this town get its name? Is there any connection with the Salloum family? Maybe a Salloum from Syria travelled and settled there in the ages passed. The same could be said for the town of Salum in Egypt. Since the western Egyptian desert is inhabited by Arab tribes from the Arabian peninsula, could a Salloum from Banu Ghassan have established this city? Some exploration could be made as to how the town of Salloum in the western United States acquired its name. My brother-in-law who was driving in Arizona passed a road sign indicating the town of Salloum. How did a place in that part of the world get our family name? The possibilities are endless.

The family name Salloum is widespread in the al-Husan area of Syria. There are many Salloum families in the eastern United States who come from that part of the world. Oral tradition has it that three Salloum brothers left Khabab at the same time: one going to al-Husan, one to northern Lebanon, and one to the Beqaa Valley. Besides al-Husan, today Salloum families are found all through the Beqaa Valley, northern Lebanon, Homs and Damascus in Syria, Palestine and Jordan. Indeed the name Salloum is to be found all over the Arab world.

When my family and I were walking in Amman, the capital of Jordan, we passed a sign which advertised a 'Salloum' shoe store. Inside we discussed the name with the proprietor and found that like our family his too originated from the Hauran. Although he was Muslim could his family be a branch of ours? Likewise the Salloums in Palestine originated from the Hauran. Were they from the same family? There is a good chance we are all related.

In distant Mauritania in the Arab west are many noble families with the family name of Salloum. In the history of that part of the world many Salloums were rulers or well-known men of their time. From one of these families came the ancestor of Alex Haley, the well-known author of Roots. Is there any connection between the Salloums of Mauritania and the Salloums of the east? It would be interesting to find out.

For the Salloums who now live in North and South America what a great project it would be to explore how their ancestors established themselves in Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, the eastern United States and southern Saskatchewan in Canada. Spending my youth homesteading on the prairies, I watched my parents suffer hardships in order to make a living in that semi-desert land. The tales I could tell are endless and I am sure the stories of the others who lived in that part of the world are unending. Like the story-telling of our ancestors could we not make a new One Thousand and One Nights?

To conclude, there are many theories regarding the origins of the name Salloum. Some say it is from the Arabic word سلم (ladder) while others claim its origin to be from the Arabic word سلام (peace). I, myself, believe our family name is a corruption of the Arabic word سلم (to greet). In the past we must have had that great Arab فضيلة (virtue): the trait of hospitality. How could it be otherwise when our name indicates 'we greet'.

THE ORIGIN OF ĀI-SALLOUM

From where did the Salloum family originate? Like the vast majority of Arabs, I am sure many Salloums have asked the questions - where did we come from? Who were our ancestors?

In my many discussions with the Salloums in North America, Lebanon and Syria, it has been established that our family origin goes back to the Arab tribe of Banu Ghassan. This tribe inhabited a land area spread from Damascus to the Gulf of Aqaba. Many of the people who live today in that part of Syria, Jordan and Palestine, whether they are Christian or Muslim, are descended from that tribe. On my many trips to Syria and Jordan, I saw unnumbered Bedouin faces which reminded me of my father's features. Looking at these men of the desert it was not hard to conclude that our ancestors were from these people.

The Banu Ghassan who had been converted to Christianity in the 4th and 5th centuries, were allies of the Byzantine Empire and were the defenders of Christianity on the empire's southern desert frontier. Before the Arabs broke out of the Arabian desert in the 7th century, the Banu Ghassan had embraced the monotheistic type of Christianity and thus came into conflict with the Byzantine Church. This monotheistic belief brought down upon them the persecution of the Byzantines. When one of their princes in the early 7th century was arrested they rose in rebellion. However, the rebellion was crushed a few years before the advent of Islam. The wars and persecutions made them detest the Byzantines. It is no wonder then that they welcomed their Arab brethren from the Arabian peninsula who burst upon them when they were in this alienated state.

After the Arab conquest many of the Banu Ghassan converted to Islam and fought in the wars of conquest. Others held on to their Christian religion and throughout the centuries were proud of being both Arab and Christian. To these Arabs of Banu Ghassan we trace back our roots.

Abdallah Tomeh Salloum who was born in Khabab, a village near the town of Izra' in the province of Hauran in southern Syria, was a descendent of that famous tribe. He must have heard many a story in his youth of the history and valour of the Banu Ghassan. In the year 1809, Abdallah left Khabab and moved to the Karoun in the Beqaa Valley.

In August of 1976 my family and myself visited Khabab and found two Salloum families still living in that town. One of the families welcomed us as long-lost relatives and their Arab hospitality knew no bounds. The older members of the family still remembered their fathers telling them about visits they made to their relatives in the Karoun. One older woman in the family remembered the story of Abdallah Salloum leaving the village to seek his fortune and never returning to his home. To them there was no doubt that we were all part of the same family.

From this first Salloum in the Karoun we begin our family tree.
